Introduction

The Nature Conservation Act 1992 (NC Act) provides a legislative basis for the conservation of nature.

The NC Act aims to achieve the conservation of nature while allowing for the involvement of Indigenous people in the management of protected areas, through an integrated and comprehensive conservation strategy for the whole of the state. It provides the framework for research; community education; dedicating, declaring and managing protected areas; and protecting native wildlife and its habitat.

The NC Act also provides for the making of subordinate legislation including regulations, notices and conservation plans.

Under section 139 of the NC Act, the chief executive must, within four months after the end of each financial year, give to the Minister a report on the administration of the NC Act during the year. The Minister must lay a copy of the report before the Legislative Assembly within 14 sitting days after its receipt by the Minister.

Nature Conservation Act 1992*—departmental administrative responsibilities

During the reporting period, the NC Act was jointly administered consistent with the Administrative Arrangements Order (No. 2) 2018, Administrative Arrangements Order (No. 1) 2018, and Administrative Arrangements Order (No. 4) 2017. As at 30 June 2019:

- the Department of Environment and Science (DES) is responsible for: the dedication and declaration of protected areas (including nature refuges); custody and management of the protected area estate and forest reserves; protection of native wildlife and its habitats; providing for the ecologically sustainable use of protected wildlife; and supporting the management of nature refuges by their owners
- the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries (DAF) is responsible for demonstrated and exhibited native animals.

This report complements information provided in the annual reports of these agencies.

Nature Conservation (Wildlife) Regulation 2006

The Nature Conservation (Wildlife) Regulation 2006 was not amended in 2018–19.

Protected areas

The protected area classes, as stated in section 14 of the NC Act, are:

- national parks (scientific)
- national parks
- national parks (Aboriginal land)
- national parks (Torres Strait Islander land)
- national parks (Cape York Peninsula Aboriginal land)
- conservation parks
- resources reserves
- special wildlife reserves
- nature refuges
- coordinated conservation areas.

All classes of national parks are areas with outstanding natural and cultural values and represent the highest level of protection under the NC Act. National parks (scientific) also contain exceptional scientific values that lend themselves to research and scientific purposes, and are managed to protect these values and allow some manipulation of habitat for threatened wildlife and control of threatening processes. National parks are managed to permanently preserve and protect their natural and cultural values and provide educational and recreational opportunities, while ensuring that any uses are nature-based and ecologically sustainable. There are currently no national parks (Aboriginal land) or national parks (Torres Strait Islander land) but these areas are intended to represent areas that should also be managed in accordance with any Aboriginal tradition or activities, or Island custom or activities, in the area. National parks (Cape York Peninsula Aboriginal land) are also to be managed in accordance with any Aboriginal tradition or activities relating to the area.

Conservation parks are generally smaller than national parks and their conservation values may not be as significant. Conservation parks are managed to permanently conserve and present the area's natural and cultural values to the greatest possible extent, as well as to provide educational, recreational and commercial opportunities in a way that is consistent with these values and is sustainable.

Resources reserves allow for the controlled use of the area's natural and cultural values such as mining and quarrying but must be managed to ensure the area is maintained predominantly in its natural condition.

Special wildlife reserves are a voluntary, binding and perpetual class of protected area, for application on privately managed land. They can apply to freehold, leasehold and reserve tenures, with ownership and management responsibilities remaining unaffected. Special wildlife reserves allow for the protection of lands of exceptional conservation significance from incompatible land uses, with equivalent conservation value and protection to that of a national park.

Nature refuges are areas of high conservation significance generally owned by private individuals and companies, which are predominantly negotiated through a legally binding, perpetual agreement between the landholder and the State. They are managed to conserve the area's significant natural and cultural resources and to provide for its controlled use as well as the interests of the landholder.

There are two coordinated conservation areas that overlay multiple tenure types, which are managed in a coordinated manner by the various landholders. They are managed to conserve the area's natural and cultural values and to provide for the interests of the landholders.

Table A details the status of protected areas, including changes during 2018–19.

Special management areas (SMAs) controlled action

Under the NC Act, SMAs (controlled action) can be declared by the chief executive over national parks to allow special management actions to occur.

An SMA (controlled action) allows for the manipulation of an area's natural or cultural resources for recovery purposes, or the continuation of a lawful existing use, where the use is consistent with maintaining the area's natural and cultural values.

As at 1 July 2019, the total area of national parks subject to SMAs (controlled action) was 51,013 hectares. No new SMAs (controlled action) were declared in 2018–19.

Protected area authorities

Sections 34–38, 42AD–42AEA, 42AN–42AP and 43F–43H of the NC Act deal with the granting of authorities for the use of national parks, national parks (Cape York Peninsula Aboriginal land), Indigenous joint management areas, conservation parks, resources reserves and special wildlife reserves. Sections 37 and 38 include provision for leases issued under the Land Act 1994 and continuing authorities under the repealed National Parks and Wildlife Act 1975.

Under these provisions, leases and authorities can, in specific circumstances, be issued for purposes that include but are not limited to ecotourism, communications, electricity infrastructure, water extraction and grazing.

The Nature Conservation (Protected Areas Management) Regulation 2017 provides for activities to be undertaken on protected areas by permit, authority or agreement. The Nature Conservation (Administration) Regulation 2017 outlines the administrative matters relating to the grant, amendment, suspension, cancellation, surrender and replacement of relevant authorities and the requirements applying to carrying out activities under a relevant authority provided for by the Nature Conservation (Protected Areas Management) Regulation 2017.

A summary of information relating to protected area authorities during 2018–19 is provided in Table B.

There were two internal reviews of decisions, with one decision made during the reporting period. No appeals to the Queensland Civil and Administrative Tribunal were made during 2018–19, as shown in Table C.

Additional information relating to the administration of selected camping permits, and commercial activity agreements and permits in 2018–19 is provided in Table D.

Under section 54 of the NC Act, the chief executive may, before the interest is created, require a person seeking an interest in land in a protected area to give the chief executive an environmental impact statement (EIS) for the use, or a stated use, of the land under the interest. No EISs were required or considered under this provision during 2018–19.

Under section 174A of the NC Act, the chief executive may, by gazette notice, approve or make codes of practice for protected areas or forest reserves. No codes of practice under the NC Act for protected areas and forest reserves were current during 2018–19.

Trustees

Section 31 of the NC Act provides that a conservation park or resources reserve may be placed under the management of trustees. Trustees are listed in schedules 1 and 2 of the Nature Conservation (Protected Areas Management) Regulation 2017. There were no new trustees appointed during 2018–19; however joint trustee arrangements were ceased with the Department of Natural Resources, Mines and Energy over seven resources reserves.

Commercial activity agreements

The Nature Conservation (Protected Areas Management) Regulation 2017 provides for authorised activities to be allowed on protected areas. Part 3 of the Nature Conservation (Administration) Regulation 2017 outlines the process for consideration of commercial activity agreements on protected areas. The 101 commercial activity agreements in force during 2018–19 are listed in Table E.

Conservation agreements for nature refuges

Section 45 of the NC Act allows the State to enter into conservation agreements with landholders to assist in the conservation of land and wildlife. The 10 conservation agreements (nature refuges) executed during 2018–19 are listed in Table F.

Forest reserves

The NC Act allows for the dedication of forest reserves as protected areas. There were no changes to the status of forest reserves during 2018–19, as indicated in Table G.

Management statements and management plans

Sections 111–119B of the NC Act outline the process for preparing management statements and management plans for protected areas. A management statement is generally required for all protected areas. However, a management plan may be prepared instead of a management statement, or to replace an existing management statement, if the Minister is satisfied it is appropriate in the circumstances.

As at 30 June 2019, there were 80 management plans covering 105 protected areas, as listed in Table H—including five national parks (scientific), 66 national parks, 30 conservation parks and four resources reserves. During 2018–19, one protected area management plan, for Daintree National Park, was approved by the Governor in Council.

As at 30 June 2019, there are 379 protected area management statements covering 457 protected areas, as listed in Table I—including four national parks (scientific), 206 national parks, 17 national parks (Cape York Peninsula Aboriginal land), 190 conservation parks and 40 resources reserves. During 2018–19, one protected area management statement, for Curtis Island National Park (incorporating Curtis Island National Park, Curtis Island Conservation Park, Southend Conservation Park, Cape Capricorn Conservation Park, Garden Island Conservation Park, Curtis Island State Forest, North Curtis Island State Forest, Curtis Island Environmental Management Precinct and Great Barrier Reef Coast Marine Park adjoining Queensland Parks and Wildlife Service estate), was approved.

As at 30 June 2019, 95% of national parks—including national parks (scientific), 94% of conservation parks and 86% of resources reserves had a management instrument (management statement or management plan) in place (excluding joint management areas). This enabled improved management, including ecosystem health, fire, pest and visitor management, and provided direction on emerging and contemporary matters.

Wildlife and habitat conservation

Classes of wildlife

Part 5 of the NC Act and the Nature Conservation (Wildlife) Regulation 2006 detail the requirements to protect native wildlife. Protected wildlife may be prescribed as 'extinct in the wild', 'endangered', 'vulnerable' or 'near threatened'. In addition, wildlife may be prescribed as 'international' or 'prohibited'. There were no changes to the classes of wildlife in 2018–19. A summary of numbers of prescribed wildlife, as at 30 June 2019, is provided in Table J.

Wildlife licences, permits and other authorities

Under the NC Act, licences, permits or other authorities are required for the taking and use of protected wildlife, to ensure that use is ecologically sustainable and wild populations are protected. Summaries of information relating to wildlife licences and wildlife permits are provided in Table K and Table L.

Under section 174A of the NC Act, the chief executive may, by gazette notice, approve or make codes of practice for protected wildlife. A summary of the 13 wildlife codes of practice and guidelines in effect under the NC Act during 2018–19 is provided in Table M.

Under section 100B of the NC Act, the Minister may enter into a captive breeding agreement for protected wildlife. A summary of the four captive breeding agreements in effect during 2018–19 is provided in Table N.

Critical habitats and areas of major interest

Under section 175(j) of the NC Act, the Governor in Council may make regulations with respect to the use or development of land, and activities, in an area identified as, or including, a critical habitat or an area of major interest. No critical habitats or areas of major interest were determined during 2018–19.

Declarations

Chapter 8, Part 5 of the Nature Conservation (Wildlife Management) Regulation 2006 provides for special management declarations for marine mammals. No special management declarations were made during 2018–19.

Interim conservation orders

Part 6 of the NC Act allows for interim conservation orders to be made for the conservation, protection or management of threatened or near threatened wildlife, a critical habitat, an area of major interest, or a protected area. No interim conservation orders were issued during 2018–19.

Administration

Conservation officers

Under section 127 of the NC Act, the responsible Minister may appoint an employee of DES or DAF; an officer of the public service; a police officer; or another appropriately qualified person to be a conservation officer. Conservation officers possess a range of investigation, compliance and enforcement powers supporting the implementation of the objectives of the NC Act. Departmental records indicate a total of 93 conservation officers were newly appointed or reappointed under the NC Act during 2018–19. No Land and Sea Rangers (non-public service employees) were newly authorised to exercise powers under section 151 of the NC Act (Conservation officer may require name and address).

Offences and prosecutions

Enforcement of the NC Act is a major activity for DES, to ensure the protection and conservation of Queensland's natural environment.

DES's Litigation Branch finalised five prosecutions in 2018–19, resulting in fines totalling $18,500 and $1,250 in costs. Additional information on enforcement activities for protected area and wildlife matters is provided in Table O.
